

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

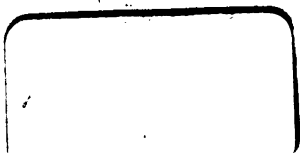

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

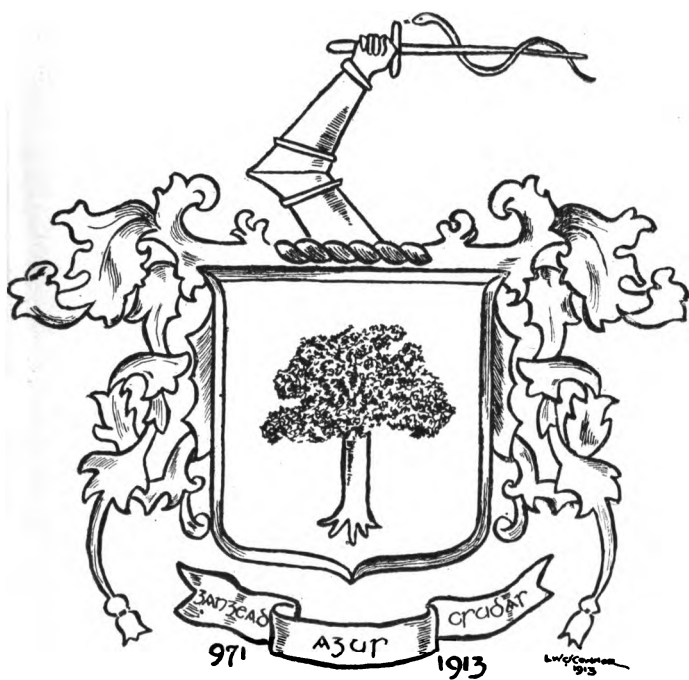

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The O'Connor Family

The name O'Connor is derived from Conchobhar, (in Irish the "ch" and "bh" are silent) King of Connaught who died A. D. 971 and was first adopted by Teige of the White Steed, grandson of Conchobhar. Teige died A. D. 1030.

It is written in Irish, says the historian O'Donovan, Ua Conchobhair and it has been variously at different times anglicised O'Conquovar, O'Conogher, O'Knogher, O'Konnor, O'Conner, O'Conor and O'Connor, according to the ever varying whims of usage. The Irish form of the second part contains a guttural sound which was usually represented by gh in Old English. Conchobhar means hero or champion.

The family was part of the great Sil Murray race of Ireland, and its descent may be traced in "O'Hart's Irish Pedigrees" to the most remote ages.

Turlough Mor, from which this genealogy is traced, was the father of many children, among whom were Roderick the last King of Ireland and Cathal Cravagh, ancestor of the present "O'Conor Don," "O'Connor of Mount Prospect" and O'Connor Eccles Families, all of which is fully set forth in Burkes Landed Gentry. The best history of the early days of our branch of the family is found in "O'Rorke's History of Sligo," and "The O'Connor's of Connaught" published in Dublin.

The descendants of Mathias O'Connor who settled in New York City about 1780, trace their ancestry through him back to the O'Connor Sligo family.

By a parchment manuscript in the possession of Mr. P. A. Taaffe O'Connor of Sangre Grande, Trinidad, B. W. I., which is attested by Charles O'Hara, M. P. Phillips, of Clonmore House, and which was brought to Trinidad in 1871 by Dr. James Lynch O'Connor, the ancestry may be traced back to the early 17th Century.

A copy of the plate dedicated to Sir Lawrence Trank in the possession of the same Mr. O'Connor gives the family line from Conn of the Hundred Battles A. D. 175.

The Early Family, 1181-1641

- A. Turlough Mor, King of Ireland, his son.
- B. Brian Lingshech, died 1181 at Battle of Crich Carbury, his son.
- C. Andrias, his son.
- D. Brian, his son.
- E. Teige, 1308 m Sabia, da, of Hugh O'Neil, their son.
- F. Donnell his son.
- G. Murtough, Lord of Carbury and Sligo, died 1329, his son.
- H. Donnell, Lord of Sligo, m O'Rourke, greatly increased family power and prestige, died 1395, their son.
- I. Owen, Lord of Sligo, died 1444.
- K. Teige, Lord of Sligo, his second son.
- L. Cathal Oge, leading military leader of the family, his children held the chieftainship of Sligo for fifty years, his 3rd son.
- M. Teige, Lord of Sligo succeeded to title in 1636, his younger son.
- N. Charles, known as Captain Charles O'Connor in the Confederate Army of Ireland 1641, at the capture of Sligo. The parchment record begins here.

Of the above all were Lords of Sligo except Cathal Oge (L) and Charles (N) Cathal Oge was barred by his older brother Donnell who however, died childless in 1588, the title falling to Donough, oldest son of Cathal Oge (L).

After the Battle of Crich Carbury in 1181 in which Brian (B) was killed, the family lived quietly at Benbulbin in the vicinity of Castletown for many years.

About 1300 A. D. Murtough (G) took the title "The O'Connor Sligo" having secured control of the present county of Sligo.

Donnell, the next chief had 3 sons who succeeded him in turn as chief. Murtough, who died in 1403, Bryan who died 1440 and Owen (I) who died in 1444.

During this century there was constant warfare between the various chieftains of Connaught and Ulster, and with the English.

Donnell, eldest son of Teige (K) was friendly to the English, in 1565 he acknowledged Queen Elizabeth, was Knighted April 4, 1567, acquired great wealth and power, he died 1588.

The Early Family

Eugene, a younger brother of Donnell, became a Cleric, and was made Bishop of Killala by the English Church, but it is recorded he never interfered with the Roman Catholic priests in their form of service in the diocese.

Cathal Oge (L), it is stated by the historian O'Rorke, was probably never "The O'Connor Sligo" but during most of Donnell's lordship, he acted as general in command of his brother's forces.

Donough, nephew of Donnell, succeeded him in 1588. He also was friendly to the English, was knighted in 1604, and married Lady Eleanor Butler, Countess of Desmond. While marching to the relief of this O'Connor Sligo, General Conyers with an English force of 2000 men was ambushed and killed by the O'Donnell's. Donough died in August 1609.

He was succeeded by Donnell his brother, aged 34 years, in 1609, who married a daughter of the countess of Desmond by her first marriage, he died June 20, 1611.

Charles his son, aged 10 years succeeded to a domain of 9000 acres, 10 gardens, and 13 castles after some dispute with the English and his mother's family, the Desmonds. He was made a Baronet May 11, 1622, being the first O'Connor in Ireland to be so honored, he died 1625.

Donough a brother, succeeded, married Sarah McDonnell, and died aged 29 years in 1636 without issue.

The uncle of these two young men, Teige (M) third son of Cathal Oge (L) then became lord. His son and succeder Teige, allied himself with the confederates of Ireland and lost much for his adherence to the Irish cause.

During his lordship, Sligo City was retaken by the Confederates from the English in 1641. The Irish held the City for eight years.

Teige, son of Teige (M) lost his lands and his life at Boyle in 1652 fighting for his principles.

The Early Family, 1181-1641

Owing to the fact that since 1565 "The O'Connor Sligo" had held his title and his lands from the crown of England, it was necessary to legally confiscate the lands, so a lawsuit was brought against Martin O'Connor Sligo, son of Teige in 1662, in the name of certain Englishmen basing their claims on a deed said to have been made by the guardian of Charles in 1620 thereabout. Martin made no appearance in court, knowing in advance the decision would be unfavorable, so on October 6, 1662 this large estate was taken from its rightful owner.

Charles O'Connor and Hugh O'Connor, brothers of Teige O'Connor Sligo, took part in the capture of Sligo in 1641 and were said to have acted cruelly toward the townspeople, but Hugh was acquitted of the charge by the English some years later, at a trial held after the death of Charles. Charles is said, in O'Rorke's history, to have taken holy orders in early life.

In 1659 at the time of the first English census of Sligo, there were but 24 heads of families in the country with the family name O'Connor.

7. MATHIAS O'CONNOR, born about 1756 at Cor-sallagh, parish Achonry, Barony Leyney, Sligo, Ireland, the son of Denis O'Connor, Esq., and Margaret Phillips. He emigrated to Bedford village, now 7th and 23rd wards of Brooklyn during the Revolutionary War. In 1783 he was appointed administrator of the estate of one Tonry, and is described as being "of Bedford, yeoman." In the directory of 1788 his name appears as the earliest O'Connor in New York. His residence was at 57 Fair (now Fulton) Street, nearly opposite Dutch Street. He was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 210, afterwards known as Temple No. 4. He married Elizabeth Harris, daughter of John Harris, innkeeper and Joyce Harris of Bedford, was a schoolmaster, and died suddenly in the summer of 1791 of yellow fever.

NOTES

Mary Burke wife of Daniel O'Connor (2) was the daughter of Theobald Bourke of Beelech Castle, now called Ballina Castle, Marquis of Mayo, he commanded an army with O'Donnell at Ballinrobe 1596. He was the son of Walter Ciolhach Bourke, son of

Oliver Bourk, son of

John Bourk, son of

Sir Richard na Cuairgrath, son of

Edmund De Burc, died 1458, son of

Edmund De Burc, son of

Edmond Albanach De Burc, son of

Sir William De Burc, Lord Warden of Ireland 1296, who married a daughter of the King of Scotland, died 1324.

Notes

Agatha O'Hara, wife of Charles O'Connor (3) was the daughter of Hibernius O'Hara, of a family who to-day hold over 23,000 acres in County Sligo.

Elizabeth Taaffe her mother, was a brother of Viscount Taaffe, from whom the Taaffe's of Ellisham Castle, Bohemia are descended. Count Rudolphes Taaffe of this family was one of three Roman Catholic Peers of Ireland who were debarred from sitting in the Irish House of Lords in 1797. His grandson Edmond Francis Joseph Taaffe was Prime Minister of Austria for many years. The Taaffe's were restored to their Irish titles by King William IV of England.

Corsalla, Cursalla or Corsallagh House the home of the O'Connor family for several generations was located in Achonry parish, barony of Leyney, not far from Tubercurrey and Bunninadden. It became the residence of the O'Connor family at the marriage of Daniel O'Connor and Agatha O'Hara, probably about 1720. As late as 1837 Lewis in his "Royal Gazetteer of Ireland" mentions it as one of the principal seats in the parish of Achonry, being then the home of "Daniel O'Connor, Esq."

The Corsalla property was sold by Charles O'Connor (10) about 1864 and passed into the hands of Mr. John Brett. It is now occupied by Mr. Patrick Donohue. At the time of the sale in 1866 it consisted of over 750 acres but by a description in the will of Daniel O'Connor in 1840 it was much larger at an earlier time.

Denis O'Connor (4) had a tenanty of several hundred.

Mr. Dominick J. O'Connor, the present head of the family in Ireland lives at Roadstown House, Banninadden, which property has been in the family since about 1770. Mr. O'Connor is the only member of the family living in Ireland today and with his death the entire family will be in America, excepting Edward O'Connor (55) who is in the priesthood in England, although born in Trinidad.

Hagadorn Family

1. Hans Statius von Hagadorn. "Danish Ambassador" married Marie Schumacher and died 1722.

2. Christopher Hagadorn, came to America 1709 and settled in Germantown, Columbia County, N. Y. He signed a remonstrance to the crown of England in 1724 and also drew up a list of inhabitants of Rhinebeck and Queensbury of Lutheran faith in 1730 which is still preserved.

3. Peter Hagadorn.

4. Jacob Hagadorn, married Maria De Hart. His will is probated in New York County Surrogate's office, Oct. 5, 1784. He left personal property of $1,600 besides his lands.

5. Francis Hagadorn, who inherited one third of his father's lands, married Mary E. Shatzel, born March 31, 1763, died December 19, 1841, who was the daughter of John Michael Shatzel and Annita Tremper, and granddaughter of Jacob Tremper, all of Dutchess County.

6. Ann Maria Hagadorn, born January 11, 1790, died November 12, 1866, married Mathias O'Connor (19) on April 21, 1814, at St. Stephens P. E. Church, Broome and Chrystie Streets, New York City, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Richard R. Moore, afterwards Bishop of Virginia.

The Hagadorn, Shatzel and Tremper families were all descended from the Palatines, who settled under Governor Hunter on the Livingston Manor in 1709 and whose passage was paid by the Queen of England. Owing to the impossibilities of their securing title to their farms, they moved down into Dutchess County and bought farms from the Beekman Estate. The name Rhinebeck originally spelled Rhinebeek was chosen by them for their settlement. "Rhine" after the river near where they had lived in Germany and "beek" in honor of the former owner of the land.

Coming to New York City at the close of War of Independence, they all continued in attendance at the Lutheran Church until 1805, when pastor and people in a body turned to the Episcopacy and founded St. Stephens P. E. Church.

Upon the roll of this church may be found in 1814, the Williams, Harris, Hagadorns, Shatzels, Tremper and O'Connors.

FURMAN HOUSE, MASPETH, LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

Furman Family

1. John Furman, born 1610, Wales, came to Massachusetts in 1631.
2. Joseph Furman, born 1635, died 1705.
3. John Furman.
4. Gabriel Furman, born 1690, died 1768, married Abigail Howard.
5. Howard Furman, born 1719, died 1813.
6. William Furman, born 1753, died 1826.
7. Garret Furman, born 1782, died 1848, married Mary Eaton, born 1785, died 1867.
8. Emeline Furman, married F. B. O'Connor.

This family settled in Newtown, Long Island in the 17th Century and became wealthy and prominent.

Many incidents are related of the Furman family, some follow quoting from Riker, the local historian.

John Furman in 1656 paid two shillings toward a purchase of common land from the Indians.

In 1686 Governor Dongan granted a charter to the freeholders of Newtown, among whom were John and Josiah Furman.

On December 10, 1774, William Furman was appointed on "Whig" Committee of Correspondence.

Howard Furman and William Furman both voted April 10, 1775 to send a deputy to the Continental Congress. Newtown was the only town in Queens County to send a representative.

In 1780—One night a brace of Tory refugees entered the house of William Furman at the Head of the Fly (late Abianthar Rhodes residence) who being an executor of Robert Coes estate was supposed to be in possession of a large sum of money. He was robbed of $1600 and badly beaten as he lay in bed (where he was ordered to remain) to force him to make further disclosures. The villains then absconded, while Mr. F. covered with blood, ran to a neighbors to spread the alarm, but the robbers escaped. They were detected at Brooklyn Ferry from the peculiarity of the coin. Mr. F. appeared before the British authorities at New York and identified some of the pieces, yet none of the money was ever restored. After the peace he was sued by the heirs of Coe and acquitted in the court of errors.

In 1782—Tory robbers numerous. Howard Furman had a heifer stolen and found her fifty yards off with her hindquarters cut off. Aaron, his son lost some ducks, but upon complaining and pointing out the thief, he was punished himself.

William Furman had his cows penned up before his house, bars wedged and front door open and a person sitting up all night to watch and yet they were stolen.

Once an altercation took place between Howard Furman and a Hessian officer. The later called Furman a d——d rebel and he retorted when the Hessian drew his sword. Furman who had seen service in the French war was not to be frightened and picking up a stick of wood, at it they went. But the affray was happily checked, yet not until Furman had lost a forefinger by a stroke of the sword.

The Furman family had several slaves and it is recorded that they freed them July 4, 1827.

1815 the Way Estate was sold to Garret Furman by Mrs. Jane Way Mott, wife of Dr. Henry Mott, and mother of the celebrated Dr. Valentine Mott of New York. (see illustration)

In 1825 Garret Furman and Grover Furman purchased a large tract of land in Williamsburgh, in the neighborhood of the present Bridge Plaza and found ready sale for it in city lots a few years later.

Harris Family

John Harris was an elector at New York in 1762.

In 1776 we find him as an innkeeper at Bedford village, Kings County, N. Y. He signed the test oath in November 1776, and died sometime previous to 1790. In the census that year, his widow Joyce is reported as living at Bedford with two sons. Mrs. Joyce Harris moved to New York about 1799 and lived with her son George at 122 Cherry Street, for some years, dying about 1821 at an advanced age.

Her other son William Harris was a mariner and lived at 121 Henry Street.

Mrs. Harris was a member of St. Stephens P. E. Church at the time of her death.

LETTER OF MATHIAS O'CONNOR (19) TO
DR. JAMES O'CONNOR

New York, June 16, 1832.

In great haste I embrace the present opportunity of writing a few lines and inclosing you an Acct. Current etc. as there has been no vessel for Trinidad since my last May 1st. I again write via Barbadoes. I hope you have come to the determination of settling with your family in this country as I think my last letter was satisfactory as to the success you would meet with here. I have since been informed by a Gentleman from Canada that the British Government have granted lands in Canada to the officers of the Army amounting according to rank and time of service, say to a captain of 20 years 1200 acres and for less time in proportion down to 800 acres. Would it not be well under such circumstances for you after arriving here to proceed with your family and settle there long enough to obtain your lands which cannot but be of great advantage to your children as these lands are rapidly increasing in value. You will perceive by the papers I forward that England is no doubt in a state of civil war ere this in consequence of rejecting the reform bill which I fear will be attended with serious consequences to the Colonies.

The state of the Market has been much the same since my last and on inquiry am told Molasses would pay better than other produce here. I have been in poor health for a few days past but am getting better thank God.

I am anxiously waiting an answer to my last which I hope came to hand. As there is another vessel for B'does in a few days will write you again.

The Cholera has reached the Canadas by emigrants from Europe and we have every fear it will extend its dreadful scourge among the states, but pray God to arrest so great a calamity.

Present my affectionate regards in which I am joined my better half to Mrs. O'Connor and son Francis.

I remain

Your dutiful cousin,

M. O'Connor

I have not heard from Ireland since my last but have writte nto your sister Mary and hope soon to hear from her.

"Jas. Lynch O'Connor, M. D.
Port Spain Trinidad
Care of Messrs. Haleys, Barbadoes."
